

Wheel Whimsy, Pottery by Neva

Albert Wisner Public Library • Display Cases - Lower Level

Neva Muehlbauer lives in Warwick with her husband Ryan and her two young children, Stella and Miles. She is a graduate of Ithaca College and is an occupational therapist who works with special needs children. Neva has been studying pottery with Marilyn Dale at the Warwick Pottery Studio since April 2006. Balancing a new love of gardening, raising chickens, and living the country life, Neva loves the feel of clay in her hands. Using wheel throwing skills, hand building skills, and combining them with a natural inclination to decorate has resulted in whimsical and delightful utilitarian ware; such as monster bowls, animal teapots, flowered pitchers, and clocks that look like houses. Neva's wish is to keep making pots that make people happy to see and use! Enjoy the show!
